motorcycle industry
after World War II.
People hungered for
new motorcycles,
buying just about everything
manufacturers could build. But on rare occasions a manufacturer
produced a machine
that nobody wanted.
Such was the case
with the Harley-

Davidson Model K.

The Model K had most of the features buyers wanted in a modern machine, like hand-operated clutches, foot-operated shifters, and cool-running aluminum heads, but it lacked perhaps the most important technological

Upgrade: a modern overhead-valve
valve-train design.

The Model K
Repair Manual
retained the antiquated side-
valve design
because of arcane
AMA racing rules
written when Harley-Davidson
and Indian competed head-tohead on American

racetracks, but by 1952 Indian was on its last legs. This should have made the Model K a massive sales success. What nobody counted on
was the British bike invasion. Thanks to their modern
overhead-valve
engines, the lightweight British bikes humiliated the side-valve Harleys on the track and on the street.

Upgrades to the Model K didn't help; Harley finally relented and introduced a new overhead-valve middleweight for the 1957 model year. Dubbed the Sportster, it was everything the Model K was not.

More importantly, it was faster than the British competition.
Thus began the Sportster's sixty-
year reign. Harley-

Sixty Years tells the complete Sportster story.

bikes--the XLCH,
