Listen to what they have to say and analyze the situation. Avoid over-reacting when talking to your children. If you are calm and thoughtful during your conversation, they will always approach you when bad things happen online. Remind your teen that Facebook isn't an "add-on" to their real life.

A Parent's Guide To Facebook | What You Need to Know

Do's and Don'ts for Parents on Facebook. Don't "friend" your child's Facebook friends unless you actually know them and have a friendly relationship. Don't comment on everything your child posts. It's embarrassing for your child, and it's just not "cool"! Don't obsess. Your child's personal life is his own, and unless something inappropriate is going on, it's not your business to find out who "Veronica" is and what she looks like.
