Journalist Walls grew up with parents whose ideals and stubborn nonconformity were their curse and their salvation. Rex and Rose Mary and their four children lived like nomads, moving among Southwest desert towns, camping in the mountains. Rex was a charismatic, brilliant man who, when sober, captured his children's imagination, teaching them how to embrace life fearlessly. Rose Mary painted and wrote and couldn't stand the responsibility of providing for her family. When the money ran out, the Walls retreated to the dismal West Virginia mining town Rex had tried to escape. As the dysfunction escalated, the children had to fend for themselves, supporting one another as they found the resources and will to leave home. Yet Walls describes her parents with deep affection in this tale of unconditional love in a family that, despite its profound flaws, gave her the fiery determination to carve out a successful life. -- From publisher description.

PRINCESS IRIS I leave home with optimism ... somehow I ' ve got to make this work. So what if this prince has a reputation for being a royal ass? It ' s still an adventure — which is all I ' ve ever wanted. Garrick is ruggedly handsome and our chemistry is undeniable. But the rumors are true... He ' s more than a jerk; he ' s stubborn as hell. But I have a plan to change his cocky ways. He just has to agree to it. Wish me luck. DEAREST READER: It ' s time to cozy up with a new mountain prince. Garrick is filthy dirty and needing to be tamed. Get ready to fantasize about all the ways you can whip him into shape. :)
