The Mortal Word stands up well as the first book to read, considering it is the fifth in the series. I have since been back and read The Invisible Library, The Masked City, The Burning Page and The Lost Plot and am looking forward to The Secret Chapter. Sadly The Secret Chapter was published in November 2019, so it will be a while before I get . . .

"Genevieve Cogman's prose in The Mortal Word is characteristically light and witty, and filled with the kind of unexpected literary references one would expect from a book about magical librarians. Even more impressive, however, is Cogman's ability to craft compelling standalone novels, while still using the developing relationships among her characters to tie the entire Invisible ...

While as neutral as possible, The Invisible Library tends to get wrapped up in the larger, cross-world power struggles between the fae, representing chaos, and the dragons, representing order. When the natural order of things in a timeline has gone awry – due to an over-reliance on technology or some deliberate meddling – fae beings, who thrive on disorder and intrigue, can manifest.

This is a very complex plot that takes so many twists and turns you could get whiplash reading or listening to it. An unexpected consequence comes when Irene get a new position. A great set up for further aduties that Irene has as a librarian of the Invisible Library. Susan Duerden does a great job as the voices in The Mortal Word.
